Helping Newcomers To Navigate the System

(Facilitating Newcomers' Integration)

By: Mahtab Rezai

Introduction:

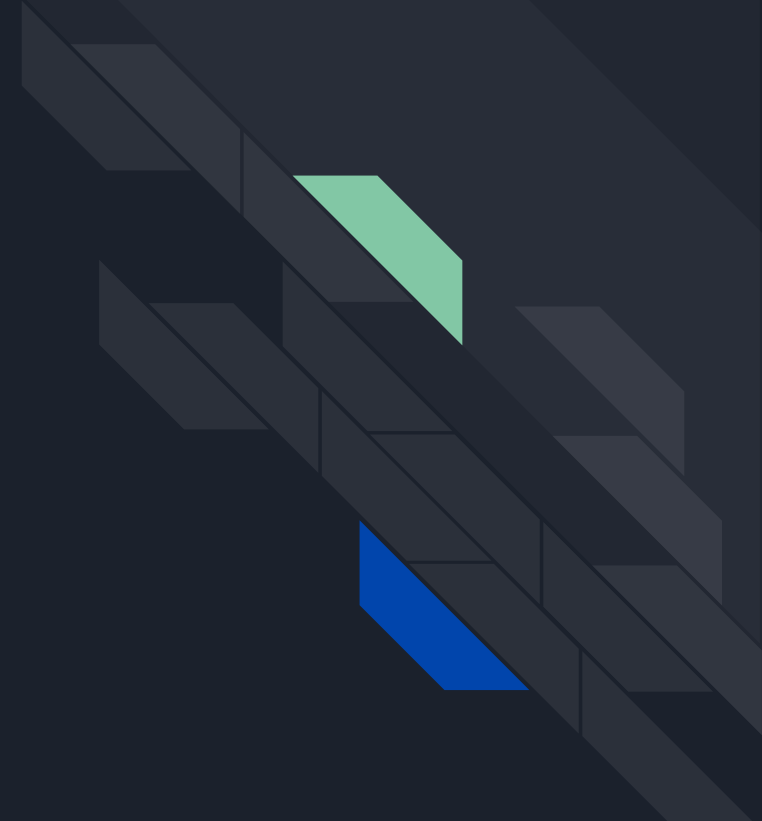

In the world that's more connected and diverse, newcomers face challenges fitting into new social, educational, and bureaucratic systems. This project aims to figure out ways to help them navigate these systems better, making it easier for them to build a stable and fulfilling life in their new home.

Points of Investigation:

Understanding the Challenges:

- Identify and analyse the challenges faced by newcomers in navigating complex systems.
- Explore the psychological, cultural, and linguistic barriers that contribute to these challenges.

Community outreach programs

- Research and investigation regarding assistance to immigrants and youth. This interview informs young people and newcomers about starting a new life in Canada individually or as a family, and how you were able to deal with the problems of not having a health card, staying, or not having a job. This is an interview of a young person. She is a newcomer to Canada who has shared with us her problems and joys that she has faced by coming to Canada and her future plans as a Canadian person and her aspirations.

- I took an interview with the youth who recently immigrated to Canada.
- What is her immigration position and overall situation right now?

Goal of the Project:

The goal is to help newcomers adapt to their new environment by creating user-friendly resources and using technology to guide them through complex systems, making their integration process smoother and more empowering and guiding them through the system Google slide and showing the challenges some immigrant youth face or might face in the future.
